Indiana. A despatch from Indianapolis, dated this morning, says:-We have had another day of the most intense excitement. As official returns began to come in, each party felt confident, and made noisy demonstrations. Last night our victory was conceded. We will have a majority of about 1200. The State Senate will stand 31 Republicans to 19 Democrats. The House stands 55 Republicans to 43 Democrats. The official vote may give us more. official vote may give us more. morning speak as follows:—
INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 15.—I telegraphed you on Tuesday night that the indications gave us the These by 8000, not 18,000. Kentucky and Ireland have cut our majority down to a close vote. Both parties claim the State, but in all probability Hendricks will be defeated by from 500 to 1500. The official returns may be required to show the result, and may change it. From present indications imchange it. From present indications importations from Kentucky have carried the three districts bordering on that State—the First, Second, and Third. Julian's district is close, and Voorhees' small majority in the Sixth will be proved fraudulent. Thus we lose no Congressmen and gain a United States Senator in place of Hendricks. The official returns are declared throughout the State to-day, but may not reach here for several days. Under the circumstances, we have done well. The Legislature is beyond doubt Republican by a majority on joint ballot of between 20 and 30.

Later.—Official returns are coming in, nearly all favorable to the Republicans. Leading Republicans figure up quite 2000 majority for the publicans figure up quite 2000 majority for the state ticket. It may, however, fall below 1000. Voorhees' majority is less than 100. Complete ficial returns may yet defeat him. His majority is the result of flagrant violations of the Registry law. Julian, for Congress, runs hundreds behind the State ticket, and will succeed only by a small majority. Republicans are sanguine and becoming more and more jubilant.

So far as heard from the aggregate vote for Baker, for Governor, is 25,925; for Hendricks 7,788, thus giving the Republican candidate a majority on the total vote of 1137. The majorities of the Congressmen elect, as far as can be ascertained are as follows:—

6. Voorhees, D., . 119

Nebraska, The returns are not all in. The probable Republican majority in the State is 2200. The Scrate is unanimously Republican, and the House 5 Democrats to 34 Republicans.

Ohio. All but four counties have been heard from. The figures stand, on the vote for Secretary of State—Sherwood, Republican, 47,772; Hubbard, Democrat, 28,429. Majority for Sher wood, 18,343

SEYMOUR AND BLAIR.

Will They be Withdrawn-Demoraliza-tion of the Democracy.

The Washington special of the New York Berald of this morning contains the following important announcements;-

While I write (last evening) Governor Walker and some others are in consultation with General Hancock to night. The friends of the General ral declare that it is not at all probable he will accept. The General himself is very mum on accept. The General himself is very mum on the subject, having refused very politely to talk with correspondents at all on politics. The movement has made quite a stir here among those who have heard of it. Democrats in general appear at a loss in what way to receive it, whether to regard it as an addition to the chapter of blunders lately committed by their party, or to welcome it as the ultima spes, the last hope of vanquishing the hero of Appomattox. Opinions differ widely, and perhaps thus fitly reflect the confusion that must ensue whether the scheme be pressed to consummation or abandoned as be pressed to consummation or abandoned as inadvisable. Some take this view, that however untimely the scheme has been thrust upon the party, now that it is out the batter plan is to adopt it. The publication which will certainly be given to it through the newspapers, they urge, will be quite as damaging to the party as to adopt the scheme itself. It will show, they say, that we are weak, hesitating, and in doubt. We can't escape from that predicament now, so We can't escape from that predicament now, so let us, in the name of Democracy, jump into the breach, as we have to face the danger, and fight boldly for success. If the scheme had not leaked out we might let it drop without danger; but now that it is known, the best thing we can do is to play it as our last card. There are some who advocate calling the full nominating some who advoca'e calling the full nominating Convention together; but as this step is scarcely practicable, owing to geographical and other difficulties, and as it might lead to unfortunate dissensions and delays, it is probable only the National C. mmittee will be summoned. As to Judge Chase, I have had no opportunity of ascertaining what his opinions are on this subject. The probabilities are, however, that he will find reasons for not accepting a compliment tendered second-hand. There seems to be no doubt about General Hancock's present feelings, which are decidedly adverse to the scheme, but that he may not be induced to the scheme, but that he may not be induced to sink personal considerations for the good of his party, especially when appealed to by so adroit a person as Robert J. Walker, I do not presume to assert. Nous verrons. There is no doubt that the movement is pretty wide-spread at this hour (11 P. M.) I learn that despatches have been sent from the East and West advi-ing the withdrawal of Seymour and Blair, and that a committee is on the way or about to start to Seymour's home to induce him to retire. Rosecraus, who is here, and who was visited to-night by Hancock, throws out another suggestion. He Hancock, throws out another suggestion. He advises that a grand spontaneous national meeting be held, and that Chase and Franklin be declared nominated. In connection with the subject I may add that the leading Democratic paper here, the Intelligencer, will publish a significant article to morrow, which by Hancock's triends is believed to be in the Case interest. The following extract will show the tone of the article:—

In putting forward a ticket in the present temper of the country, we have always main-tained they should have kept in view the fact that the Republicans were divided in sentiment upon the measures of reconstruction as well as upon the measures of reconstruction as well as upon finance. It is unquestionably true that the Republicans, before the adoption of those measures, constituted a majority of the Northern people. In putting up a ticket, then, sound policy and pairfoism commanded that the Democrats should distinctly recognize as within the pale of their organization all who opposed the measures to which we have referred. The New York Convention thought otherwise, and nominated Governor Seymour and General Biair. Those nominations, we and General Biair. Those nominations, we admit, were judicious enough, if the object alone was to maintain the integrity of the Democratic party, but we had again and again declared that the preservation of the Union, under the authority of its organic law, was the grand purpose we had in view in entering upon the canvass of 1868. As a minority could avail little in such a work, policy and sound princi-ples demanded nominations which would draw largely from conservative men of all parties. That demand was not heeded; but it is still in full force, and now is the time to obey it. Let those upon whom the convention of the party conferred the great honor of its confidence rise to the height of the great occasion, and then, emulating their exalted patriotism, let the National Executive Committee execute the trust reposed in them by the people without fear and with no other sentiment than devotion to the country and the Constitution.

The committee that is to wait on Seymour will meet to morrow in Utica. There was a meeting in New York to-day, at which the ticket of Chase and Adams was agreed upon. Chase, it is further said, was waited upon today, and declared his willingness to accept. It is too late to verify this point, but it seems to come from a reliable quarter. Barlow, Tilden, Wash. McLean, and other Democratic politiclans have been telegraphing here all day about the matter. The ticket of Chase and Adams does not meet with tayor in some quarters, as it is contended that to leave off the military altogether will operate to divert from the party a large share of the army vote. A New York politician who is here to-day and had access to the private despatches, observed, while reading them, "That ticket with two civilians will ruin us." 'Can't help it," was the answer. "The ticket was made up in New York, and we can't change it.'

Another Convert.

Color el H. A. Smalley, of New York city, a son of Judge Smalley, of Vermont, a leading Democrat of that State, has written a letter to General Stannard, in which he says that he had intended to support the Democratic nominees. He now says he is satisfied that "the interests of the country require the election of General Grant, and in accordance with this opinion I shall support him." Colonel Smalley proceeds to say:-

"In addition to my opinion of the superior fitness and qualifications of General Grant for the Presidency in the present crisis, I am constrained to the course I have adopted by my belief that Grant will have greater power to heat the monda indicated during our late strangle. the wounds inflicted during our late struggle than his opponent, if elected, and that, with as kind and generous feelings towards the South as Governor Seymour can possibly entertain, from the great services of the man, his known mildness and firmness, in which latter quality I think Governor Seymour deficient, and from the political constitution of Con-gress—he will accomplish more in the re-storation of the South to harmonious relations with the entire country, do more to renew its commercial and financial prosperity, now almost annihilated, than can Governor Seymour by any possibility, allowing the latter every meritorious intention in the premises. Revolution and civil war are indicated more or less directly, and these I do not believe the War Democracy are willing to assist in inflicting upon the country. For one I am not—and I believe the truest and best interests of the Southern people, both of the Democratic and Republican parties, will be subserved by the election of General Grant." So writes a young and gallant soldier, and so feel thousands of others who will vote precisely the same way. The ball is moving on.

The Charleston Mercury is credibly informed that the Democrats of Marion, S. C., have purchased and presented to each of the fitteen negroes who had the courage to go to the polls and vote with and for their old masters, with the title-deeds to forty acres of good land near that town

Alderman Beitler having been summoned, administered the oath of office to the members and officers of the Board.

On motion the Board proceeded to count the returns for city officers—the first in order being the return for the Mayoralty. While this was progressing, the Return Judge from the Ninetenth ward was summoned to attend in the Court of Common Pleas, and his return therefore was not received in the count. While receiving the vote word was conveyed through Mr. John Hanns, the counsel of the President of the Board, that the court had granted an alternative mapdamus restraining that body from proceeding in their work,

A motion was carried to proceed with the counting of the vote, until the order of the Court was communicated through its proper officer.

The N.Y. Hersid of this morning says:—

"The effect of the recent Republican successes was further apparent during the day in the locreased demand for United S stes stocks for investment and the steadily upward course of prices. But to all appearances this is only the commencement of a fresh pot ular movement, which will ultimately carry them higher than they have ever been before, both at shome and abroad. On the Stock Exchange there was a strong and solive market for stare bonds and railway shares. Erie, in particular, rose to 50%, but later in the day it declined to $5\text{\text{w}}\text{\text{that}}\text{unture they have ever been before, both at shome and abroad.
